Dividends

by Tramp Starr

Heard a feller up an' say in Bud Rawlins' store
Farmin', he said, "just don't pay... dividends no more!"

I've got me a house an' a garden patch,
An' some Plymouth Rock hens that's due to hatch,
An' I've got some pigs an' a Jersey cow,
An' some corn an' hay for my crib an' mow,
An' I've got me a beech an' hickory grove
To burn in my cookin' an' heatin' stove,
An' I've got some wheat for my winter's bread,
An' a sorghum patch for a sweetnin' spread---
An' this feller up at Bud Rawlins' store
Says farmin' don't pay dividends no more.

I've got me a car an' a radio,
For the baseball games an' the Benny show,
An' I've got a gun an' a good hound pup,
From a coon-dog sire I'm a raisin' up,
An' I've got a creek with a fishin' hole,
An' a old cob pipe an' a old cane pole,
An' I know where the squirrels is young an' fat
An' I know where a likely bee tree's at---
An' this feller up at Bud Rawlins' store
Says farmin' don't pay dividends no more.

I've got me a house an' a plot of ground,
An' they ain't no landlord a-snoopin' 'round
A-pesterin' me for his monthly rent,
That I had never made, or had up an' spent,
Got taxes, of course, but when they fall due
I sell off a calf, or a pig or two;
As a usual thing I ain't got a cent,
But my mind knows peace an' my heart content---
An' this feller up at Bud Rawlins' store
Says farmin' don't pay dividends no more.

I've got me a house an' a patch of land
An' a happy heart an' a willin' hand,
An' a love of the wind an' sun an' rain,
An' the birds an' the beasts an' the growin' grain,
An' my days an' my nights is free from care,
An' the presence of God is everywhere
Renewin' my faith with each bustin' seed,
In a world gone mad with wars an' greed---
An' this feller up at Bud Rawlins' store
Says farmin' don't pay dividends no more.
