LAST PROGRAM

The Lawrenceburg Rotary Club welcomed Rotarian Kane Watkins from Lawrence County Emergency Medical Services (EMS) as the guest speaker at its March 28, 2025, meeting. Watkins provided insight into the current operations, challenges, and community involvement of Lawrence County EMS.

In 2024, Lawrence County EMS responded to 6,956 calls, resulting in approximately 4,000 patient transports. For 2025 thus far, EMS has recorded 1,131 transports. The average response time for emergency calls is 9 minutes and 25 seconds, with an average call duration of 40 minutes. City response times are notably faster at an average of 4 minutes and 50 seconds.

Watkins highlighted the growing demand for EMS services, emphasizing the nationwide shortage of emergency medical personnel. Lawrence County EMS primarily responds to 911 emergency calls and interfacility transports. To meet the community's needs, the county maintains five EMS units staffed daily.

The financial demands of EMS operations are significant. A new EMS unit costs approximately $240,000, with vehicle procurement taking anywhere from 12 to 18 months. Fully equipping an ambulance brings the total cost to $402,650. Despite these challenges, the county ensures its fleet maintains a serviceable lifespan of seven to eight years. Funding for EMS operations primarily comes from insurance reimbursements and county government subsidies.

Watkins also discussed the role of Emergency Medical Responders (EMRs), many of whom serve in local fire departments and even at David Crockett State Park. EMRs play a vital role in providing critical care before EMS arrives on the scene.

Community involvement in emergency preparedness remains a priority. Watkins encouraged residents to take part in lifesaving programs such as CPR/AED training, Stop the Bleed courses, and First Aid instruction. He also stressed the importance of making homes easily identifiable for first responders by ensuring house numbers are clearly visible and porch lights are functional. Additionally, Watkins advised residents to maintain accessible patient medical information, either on the refrigerator at home or in their vehicle, to assist EMS personnel in emergencies.

Lawrence County EMS continues to respond to approximately 35-40 calls per shift, ensuring high-quality emergency care for the community. The Rotary Club appreciates the vital service provided by EMS personnel and recognizes the importance of ongoing support for these essential workers.

For more information about Lawrence County EMS or to participate in emergency training programs, community members are encouraged to reach out to their local emergency services.

Rotary President John Johnstone introduced the program.
