

“But wait, there’s more!” he said. And, there definitely was. For the first time ever, our club had what some might say was the craziest new member induction. Armed with kazoos, our members lined up in two lines facing each other with an alley in between. As Cynthia played her accordion, our members began humming their instruments. The result was a honking, grrring, mooing mass of humanity. And if that was not enough, (because Wait! There was still more!) the lines began to “stroll” down the middle with KarenA at the lead. Oh, what a sight it was. These are the moments our club will remember. Thank you to Tom Craig for being our newest inductee and a good sport with all this confusion. Thank you to Sally for the fun idea and to Greg for putting this together. In Rotary, we have fun when we can, and work when we should. Keep your kazoos kids, we will probably be using them again.

Club Report: Byron indicated that there was nothing of great importance for the board to report. The club is on track for the citation and the finances are in good shape.

Other News:

Attention: Bonnie shared that she was still accepting $300 donations from individuals in the club who wanted to be put on the Wall of Fame Banner for the Brewfest. She also asked everyone to help her find business sponsors. As she was the only remaining member of the sponsorship committee, now is the time to come forward with suggestions or locate sponsors for the Brewfest. Please help her out.
