The mission of the program, Reforest Our Future, is to advocate for and implements reforestation activities, engaging with and educating the public about the importance of trees for healthy landscapes and healthy communities, and promoting research on reforestation.

Reforest Our Future envisions a world where people share a universal knowledge of trees and forests and the significant roles they play for the well-being of our communities and our planet. We imagine a time when every person embraces their connection to nature and is empowered to take action for the preservation and restoration of trees and forests around the world.
